

ABSTRACT

5

A mapping and addressing system suitable for use with secure remote access systems, and in particular, with open application (web browsing) standard remote access devices is disclosed. The invention provides an open application standard for GPS support, and provides access to remote address data otherwise 10 previously unavailable to conventional GPS systems.